The good son always comes back home

Trent was sitting by the studio pannels when Robin came in. His pupils grew a bit as his throat dried. He leant, getting up, mentally re-reading the conversation he had made in his head.

-Once again, welcome back.

-Thank you.

A long pause of awkward looks. Trent took a deep breath.

-I missed you, you know.

-Yup, I do know.

-Asshole.

-Happy birthday.

Finck left, little smirk plastered onto his face. Reznor turned his head back to the pannels, slipping his hand lightly through the tiny switches and buttons, smiling in a way he hasn't smiled for a long time.
